

WHAT can Energy Share funds pay?

The organization focuses on helping with energy-related emergencies, if all other sources of assistance have been exhausted, Energy Share may help individuals pay their energy bills. A one-time expenditure of up to $400 per household can be made to provide assistance.

WHO qualifies?

Energy Share funds are to be used as a last resort for people in emergency need with no other obvious resources.

First priority goes to individuals and families with annual incomes at or above the amounts reflected in the chart shown on the back panel and who are residents of Wyoming.

Special consideration is given to senior citizens and the disabled. The Salvation Army determines assistance based on need, lack of other resources and the amount of available Energy Share funds.

Households with annual incomes below the amounts listed in the chart on the back panel, may be eligible to receive assistance under special circumstances as approved by The Salvation Army and/or the Energy Share Board of Directors.

The Salvation Army helps applicants find assistance from existing programs before using Energy Share Funds. Applications must include documented attempts to find alternate sources, such as letters of denial and memoranda stating the need for additional assistance. Cooperation with existing programs, both governmental and charitable efforts is also a primary goal of Energy Share.

WHAT is Energy Share?

Energy Share of Wyoming is a private, non-profit organization established to help people in hardship circumstances with energy-related emergencies. It assists people with energy problems when no other resources are available to them and when these problems are caused by circumstances beyond their control.

WHO sponsors it?

Energy Share of Wyoming is a partnership of numerous concerned individuals and organizations in the state representing senior citizens, churches, utilities, disabled-service groups and human-service applicants. It is administered by a Board of Directors representing various organizations. The Board approves allowable uses of monies it receives, establishes eligibility guidelines and oversees periodic audits of Energy Share expenditures.

HOW can deserving people apply?

The Salvation Army is the local representative for Energy Share and is responsible for assessing need and determining eligibility for Energy Share assistance.
